OMDA Oil & Gas, Inc. regrets to inform its shareholders that there will be a slight delay in the next segment of its five part newsletter series. Over the last two weeks, OMDA has released four segments of its question and answer series with company chairman Adam Barnett. The company had originally slated part two of segment four to be released this week; however, due to additional accounting and legal review, this release date will not be possible. The company will release the newsletter upon final review and approval.

Thank you and I appreciate your understanding on this matter.

Adam Barnett
